Johnny Bench to be featured guest

Longwood tournament approaches

Want to play a round or two of golf with Johnny Bench? If you've entered or plan to enter the Greater Longwood Lancer Club/Coors Invitational Golf Tournament August 24-26, then you can bid to play with Johnny Bench.

Perhaps you're not a golfer, but you'd just like to meet Johnny Bench, one of the top baseball players of all time. Golfers and non-golfers alike will have a chance to spend some time with Mr. Bench at a breakfast August 25.

"As a way of raising money for the Longwood Athletic Program, we're going to encourage tournament participants to bid for the chance to play golf with Johnny Bench," said Donald Lemish, Longwood Vice President for Institutional Advancement. "The three highest bidders will have the opportunity to play golf with Mr. Bench."

Bid sheets will be mailed to all tournament entrants in early August. Minimum bids to play golf with Bench should be $100. Deadline for sending in bids is August 17 at 12 Noon.

Ten spots are open for persons who would like to bid to have breakfast with Johnny Bench, Saturday, August 25 at 8 a.m. Individual bidders should submit their bid (minimum $50) to Brenda Kidd, Director of Annual Funds, Longwood College Farmville, VA 23901. Deadline for bids is August 17 at 12 Noon. You do not have to be a tournament participant to bid for breakfast with Mr. Bench.

FORECADDIES NEEDED

The Lancer/Coors Tournament needs youngsters aged 11-16 to serve as forecaddies for the tourney Saturday and Sunday at both Longwood and Wedgewood Country Club Golf Courses. The volunteer forecaddies will be responsible for spotting balls on blind holes. In return for their services the youngsters will have the opportunity to meet with Johnny Bench. Interested youths should call Rich Pospanko at 392-9266 or 392-9262 for more information.

REGISTRATION DEADLINE NEARS

Golfers who intend to enter the Lancer/Coors Tournament are reminded to mail entries early. The entry deadline has been extended to allow more registration.

Safety device

Deere announces improvement

Deere & Company today announced that in the interest of farm safety it will make available at no cost to the farm equipment industry its patents for a transmission device that reduces the risks of tractor accidents.

The special transmission valve, which was developed at the John Deere Product Engineering Center in Waterloo, Iowa, prevents hydraulically activated transmission clutches from engaging unless the clutch pedal has been depressed and released by the operator following each start.

Operators have been injured when they improperly started their tractors by bypassing normal circuitry while standing on the ground. It is a practice that manufacturers have urged farmers not to use and have tried to discourage through other design changes.

The danger in such a start, of course, is that the tractor will move if the transmission is in gear. With the Deere safety device in the clutch hydraulic circuit, the machine won't go into motion following a start even when it is in gear, at least not until the operator mounts the machine and depresses and releases the clutch pedal.

Currently Deere has the safety feature on its 50 Series row crop and four wheel drive tractors with the Quadrange transmission, and within the next few months it will be installed on all 50 Series row crop tractors.

This action by Deere marks the fourth time the company made its safety patents available to the entire industry at no cost. In 1971, Deere released its patented rollover protection structure, and four years later it gave the industry its patented method for covering power take-off shafts to reduce exposure and thus injuries. In 1982, Deere released its patent for a tip-up shield on the tractor which reduces the necessity of removing the shield to accommodate large power take-off connections.

Scuba course set

A National YMCA SCUBA diving course will be offered for men and women age 12 and older at the Central Lynchburg YMCA, 1315 Church Street, beginning Aug. 12.

Michael R. Eberl, national YMCA certified SCUBA instructor, will conduct the five-week course. Those completing the course will be certified SCUBA divers.

Classes will meet on Sunday from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Pool sessions will follow at 5 p.m., and all diving equipment will be supplied. Participants need to furnish only swimsuit, towel, paper and pencil.

During the course, all phases of basic diving, including safety diving theory, practical pool work and open water checkouts will be covered.

For additional information or to register, contact Mike Eberl (instructor) at (804) 237-1383 after 5 p.m.

Campfest slated

The Roanoke Transportation Museum will be host to a Winnebago Campfest on Saturday and Sunday, August 11-12 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The Ginnie Winnie group of the Winnebagoes will display fourteen of their recreational vehicles. Members of the group will be available to answer questions regarding the operation of Winnebagoes and camping in general.

Admission is $2 for adults, 75 cents for children 3-12 years of age (under three is free) and $1.60 for senior citizens. Group rates are available.

For more information, call (703) 342-5670.

Keep your catch good and fresh

"Gone fishing" are words that could be posted on many doors during the summer. Fishing is a sport that, for a variety of reasons, appeals to many men and women.

Although some fishermen don't like to eat their fish, most anglers eagerly anticipate the aroma and taste of their catches. Some forget, however, that just a few hours in the hot sun can mean that the delicate sweet flavor associated with fresh fish is lost.

An ice chest should be a standard piece of equipment for any fisherman. Ice quickly lowers the fish temperature, prevents drying and continuously flushes away bacteria as it melts.

Many fisherman store their catches in buckets of water, even though this is a poor storage method. In buckets, the fish quickly use the available oxygen are fouled by their own metabolic wastes.

In addition, fish handled in this way rapidly go through rigor mortis (stiffening), thus shortening storage life.

When possible, fish should be gutted and cleaned shortly after they are landed. The body cavity should be filled with ice and the fish should be packed completely in ice.

Rough handling should be avoided. Bruises and cuts encourage spoilage. Proper cooling and handling also extend the shelf life of fish destined for the freezer.

Freezing preserves the quality of fish, but it cannot improve upon it. Therefore, fish should be as fresh as possible when frozen.

A little extra care in icing a catch can pay handsome dividends. The sweet delicate flavor of your catch will make you glad you carried an ice chest on your fishing trip.

Benefit tourney planned

A double-elimination softball tournament to benefit Steve May will be held Aug. 10-12 at the Appomattox Town Ball Park.

Mike Weakley is in charge of registering teams for the tournament. He can be reached at 352-8344. Teams are asked to register by Aug. 8.

Trophies will be awarded to the teams finishing in the top four positions. Trophies will also be awarded for sportsmanship and to the most valuable player.

Entry fee for the tournament is $65 per team.

Proceeds from the tournament will be used to benefit Steve May, a six-year-old child in Red House who will undergo a kidney transplant this autumn.

Jayvee girls basketball tryouts set for Monday

Tryouts for J.V. Girls Basketball will be held Monday, August 13 at 11:00 a.m. at the Appomattox County High School gym. Every girl must have their physical and insurance forms turned in before they can practice.

Blue mold found here on flue cured tobacco

By JAMES A. SMITH
Extension Agent

Blue mold was found on flue cured tobacco in the county last week. The weather for the past two weeks has been near perfect for bluemold and weather flock or ozone injury.

In most fields there is some evidence of weather fleck. There is no control. We find less in fields where there is good air movement. It appears to be a greater problem where the air can become stagnant, caused by depressed areas, woods or taller crops blocking air movement.

Tobacco has had too much water, and needs some sunshine to help it grow. The humidity associated with the excess water contributes to several foliar diseases that affect tobacco.

We've seen some ringspot in a few fields, but not a major problem.

TMV (tobacco mosaic virus) is in practically every field. This is a disease that is spread mechanically or by man. It can be controlled to a high degree by following simple sanitation practices, but it's too late now.

Growers may want to consider using a fungicide to protect their tobacco crop from bluemold, especially if this humid, damp weather continues. It's important to cover all leaves when spraying by moving slowly with 40 to 45 psi.

Some of the materials that will protect the crop are: Ferbam, Dithane M-22, Maneb 200, Dithane M-45.

We've had several calls about fall armyworms in late corn. The best control is with either furadan or dylomate granules.

For home gardeners, use Dipel at 2 tablespoons per gallon of water. Dipel is slow, but should do the job.

There will be some flue and dark tobacco harvested this week.

Feeder cattle sale nominations were mailed last week--if you didn't get one, give us a call. Try to get nominations in as soon as possible.

Senior bulls will be delivered at Red House Monday, August 13, 8:00 to noon.

There were 134 cattle owners from Appomattox County certified to vote in the beef referendum. I was pleased with this response.

It's that time of year to repair damaged spots in the lawn or seed a new one. We've found a number with extremely low pH's. Now is a good time to take soil tests and add lime.

Many Appomattox cattlemen know that tall fescue when stockpiled makes good feed. I've done some figuring with several farmers concerning their feed supply. Looks like we'll get a good fall hay cutting, but some farmers don't have enough feed in place to go through the winter. Stockpiling fescue is a good way to build feed stocks.

It takes 1 1/2 tons of hay to carry a cow through the winter and about 3/4 this amount for a yearling. One acre of stockpiled fescue will carry one cow for 120 days. Most producers like to graze fescue 60 days December through January and then utilize the stored hay for the remaining 75 days.

When the cows come off the end of January, reseed clover at the rate of 3 to 5 pounds red clover plus 1 1/2 to 2 pounds of giant white clover (Ladino, Tillman or Regal).

By August 15 fescue should be mowed or grazed close. Topdress with 75 to 100 pounds of nitrogen. If P and K are needed, add these.

This rate of nitrogen works on the pH, so run a soil test in late fall to provide direction after grazing is complete. Hold cattle off fescue until about December 1.

When your Five County Fair catalog arrives, please take a few minutes and look through the book to become familiar with the many items which you can enter in the fair. The opportunities are great for a young person who is willing to work and prepare items for exhibit.

Fair exhibits may range from livestock and poultry exhibits to clothing, vegetables, foods, crops, canned goods, paintings, crafts, photography, woodworking and a host of others. The fair also offers a talent contest which may be of interest to many of our 4-H Share-the-Fun performers.

The Five County Fair currently provides our only opportunity to exhibit many of the items which 4-H'ers might make as they complete projects. We encourage you to take advantage of this opportunity. This year's fair will be held the week of September 10-15.

The 4-H group traveling to Texas will be available to present a program for interested civic or community groups during the year. Color slides were taken during the trip and will be used to highlight many of the areas visited in Bailey County, Texas. Please give us a call at the Extension Office if your club or group would like to schedule such a program.

Senior 4-H'ers (those 14 or older before January 1, 1985) are encouraged to begin work on achievement records during their summer vacation. 4-H achievement records involve recording everything that the member has done in 4-H over the past years. Achievement records provide the only way that 4-H'ers have the chance to attend National 4-H Congress in Chicago. Complete details on how to complete an achievement record are available from the Extension Office, as well as the necessary forms. We are also willing to work individually with any 4-H'er needing help with an achievement record.

As we approach a new 4-H year, it's important for young people to realize that they'll need to rejoin 4-H in September or October in order to remain an active member. Teenagers often miss opportunities simply because they forget to enroll in 4-H. Young people can join through an organized club (community or school) special interest group or as an individual member. New 4-H enrollment cards will be in the Extension Office by early September.

APPOMATTOX FFA CHAPTERS were represented last week at the state FFA Leadership Camp by Kevin Kidd, Troy Totty, Kyle Hamilton, and Wilson Randolph. The camp is designed to provide training in the various leadership skills needed by officers of a local FFA chapter. In addition to attending classes the students also participated in team sports and a trip to Busch Gardens in Williamsburg. FFA Camp is located on the James River near Smithfield, Virginia.

ASCS Today

By TOM CONRAD
Agricultural Conservation Signup This Week - A signup in the Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP) is taking place this week and will continue through Monday, Aug. 13. Limited funds are the reason for the short signup period and these funds are for work to be started this fall.

There are three practices available and anyone who has a conservation problem on the farm is encouraged to discuss with us whether or not our program will be able to help.

The practices and cost-share rates are as follows: Permanent Vegetative Cover on Critical Areas - 75 percent; Sodwaterways - 75 percent; Animal Waste and Control Facilities - 50 percent.

For the Critical Areas and Sodwaterways, the government picks up 75 percent of the tab and the applicant 25 percent. An animal waste system is eligible for up to 50 percent cost share. This is a good way to get needed work done at minimum expense.

One thing quite important is that a practice cannot be started before it is approved and still be eligible for cost share, so talk to us first and get all of the details.

For those farmers who already have outstanding practices you are also eligible to sign up. Also, if you have completed your outstanding practice, you can report it now and be paid. Be sure to bring your bills in when reporting.

Flue-Cured Tobacco Marketing Cards Ready - Flue-cured growers can now pick up their marketing cards at the ASCS office. Only the owner, operator or someone with power of attorney may pick the card up.

At the time you pick up the card, you will be required to certify as to the use of pesticides and whether or not any discount varities were planted. Failure to do this will make you ineligible for price support.

The area markets will open on Aug. 14. If you are not going to be selling for a while it is my recommendation that you hold off getting your card so you can avoid the risk of loss.

Wheat and Feed Grain - Acreage Conservation Reserve - After Aug. 15, I will on re-pandem. Bedal be checking acreage conservation reserve land to see if maintenance has been exercised according to regulations.

This land needs to have been clipped sometime between June 30 and Aug. 15. If my visit indicates this has not been done, penalty will be incurred.

Also, no grazing of this land until Oct. 1, 1984 and no haying throughout the calendar year. An adequate stand of grass cover is required to prevent erosion. For 1985 planting purposes this land cannot be fallowed before Sept. 1, 1984.

If you have questions please give me a call.
